

Real Estate Developer

The real estate developer was facing significant capital costs for providing electric, natural gas, and water infrastructure to its $187 million mixed use development. STEP Resources designed and engineered the installation of a sub metering system that increased the rentable square footage and reduced the developer's capital cost by more than $100,000.